

Process Paper—Paragraph Four Samples

I used a series of steps while creating my documentary on the Kolb Brothers. First, I created a script which I used as a basis for all my media. Then, I timed the script in order to stay within the 10-minute limit. Since I was well over the limit, I trimmed my script to fit the contest rules. Next, I began recording my documentary in sections and inserting media that accompanied the text well. I created my documentary using iMovie, which allowed my video to have a more professional quality.

My website was not easy to do but not impossible. I started out by finding information about the questions I wanted to answer to get the facts about the Holt story for my website. After I found enough information, I chose the design and colors for my site. I chose red to represent China, which is the country I am from originally. I organized my site based on the most important topics that I researched. Then I built each page with text, quotes, pictures, and videos.

To make our exhibit, we first organized our information into paragraphs by topic, and then glued them on blue paper. We used black and blue for our board colors to represent space. We also constructed a timeline using images of Neptune for our exhibit. We ordered a kit to build a cardstock model of the Voyagers and displayed it in our exhibit. In addition, we created a 3-minute video for our exhibit using clips from videos online. Our biggest problem in making this project was revising and correcting our paragraphs, and reducing the word-count to 500 words.
